A COSTLY EDITION OF A FAVORITE POET.
THE POETICAL WORKS OF HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW. Illustrated. Vol. I. Boston: Houghton, Osgood & Co. $1.75.

Never before, perhaps, have the works of any modern poet been put forth with such costly appointments of finest paper, careful press-work and engravings in full measure, pressed down, shaken together and running over, as has been done by Messrs. Houghton & Osgood in their new edition of the poems of Longfellow. Fifteen numbers have been published thus far, completing half the work, and these, bound up into a single volume, are now offered to the public. The book is quarto form, following the nomenclature of the eye, but the signatures make it an octavo, and it contains four hundred and eighty-eight pages of text, not counting the table of contents and the list of illustrations. The latter gives the titles of the three hundred and fifteen wood-engravings which illustrate the poems, with the names of the forty-four designers and thirty-four engravers who have shaped them. It is a short story.
